INTRODUCTION

MOZ Pet Food is a 100% Fresh Raw meal, without the need to freeze. It's the most convenient, safest, completely balanced Whole Prey Raw diet on the market. And we prove it!!

This is the 1st shelf stable, Fresh Raw product available in North America with 24 years of success, without recall, under European-IFS Certification.

A fresh, RAW meal, shelf stable for 18 months. MOZ Pet Food is a Biologically & Age appropriate meal for both Cats & Dogs.

IFS Certification (a Global Food Safety initiative) audits the entire sourcing, manufacturing and logistics process, including single batch testing, to ensure superior quality and safety that exceeds worldwide standards. Human grade sourcing, humanely (not mechanically) processed livestock, on staff nutritionists, on site laboratory batch testing with audited quality control ensure the highest quality, safety and nutritional values on the market.

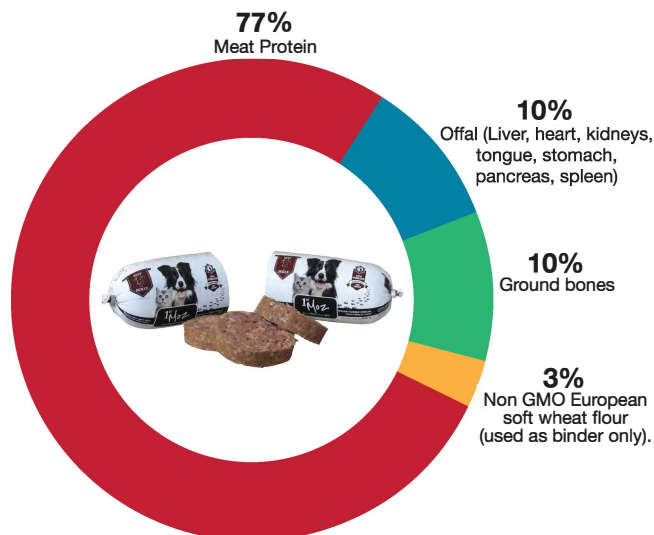

Cold-Pressed Sterilization:

MOZ Sterilization process is "Cold-Pressed Sterilized" This proven process sterilizes and seals fresh meat, giving MOZ Pet Food a guaranteed 18 month shelf life, bacteria free, from pantry to pet.

The meal is subjected to extreme pressure as well as extreme cold temperature to destroy bacteria without ever cooking, while retaining all the vitamins, nutrients and moisture content nature intended. It is then sealed in a guaranteed oxygen barrier wrap for delivery of a fresh product dated for 18 months at room temperature.

MOZ stands alone as the most convenient, complete and balanced diet for Dogs & Cats, without freezing and without the risk of bacteria. No additives or preservatives whatsoever.

WHAT IS IFS CERTIFIED?

The IFS Food Standard is a GFSI (Global Food Safety Initiative) recognized standard for auditing food manufacturers. The focus is on food safety and the quality of processes and products. It concerns food processing companies and companies that pack loose food products.

IFS Food applies when products are “processed” or when there is a hazard for product contamination during primary packing. The Standard is important for all food manufacturers, especially for those producing private labels, as it contains many requirements related to the compliance with customer specifications.

The Standard supports the production and marketing departments in their efforts for brand safety and quality. IFS Food has been developed with full and active involvement of certification bodies, retailers, food industry and food service companies.

Scope

The IFS Food Standard is used to audit food manufacturers regarding food safety and quality of processes and products.

The list of requirements is organized in the following topics:

- Senior management responsibility
- Quality and food safety management system
- Resource management
- Planning and production process
- Measurements, analysis, improvements
- Food Defense

Objectives

- To establish a common Standard with a uniform evaluation system
- To work with accredited certification bodies and qualified auditors approved for IFS Food,
- To ensure comparability and transparency throughout the entire supply chain,
- To reduce costs and time for both manufacturers and retailers.

Benefits

IFS Food certification can offer a number of key benefits to companies striving for excellence in quality, food safety and customer satisfaction, and seeking a competitive advantage in their market place.

Production department benefits:

- Improved understanding between management and staff relating to good practices, standards and procedures,
- Monitoring of compliance with food regulations,
- More effective use of resources,
- Reduction in the need for customer audits,
- Independent third party audits,
- Higher flexibility through individual implementation due to a risk based approach.

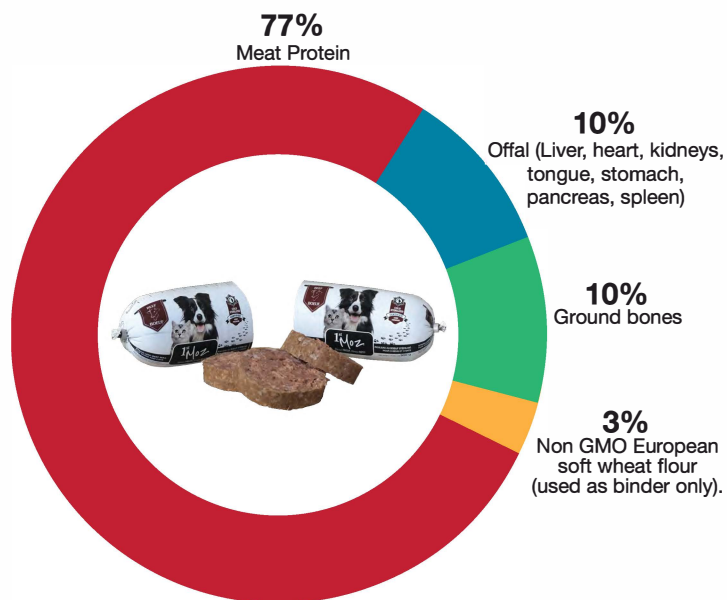

Marketing department benefits:

- Improved business reputation as a manufacturer of high-quality and safe products
- Ability to trade with customers requiring third party audits
- Use of the IFS logo and certificate to demonstrate compliance with the highest standards.
